DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of IDS filed on 3/17/04; 1/29/04 and 10/29/03. Claims 1-2 are pending in the application and the status of the application is as follows:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combination of U.S. Patents 6,685,953 ('953) and 6,800,302 ('302)

The instant application is claiming hair cosmetic composition comprising diamide and a film-forming polymer. Patent '953 teaches external preparations using the same claimed diamide. See the abstract, see col.s 2-6 for the diamide, see col.7, lines 41-56 and see col.8, lines 8-30, where the patent teaches using diamide in hair care art. This includes using the diamide in hair rinses, hair treatment and in hair styling. Patent does not teach film- forming polymer. However patent '302 teaches styling compositions using film-former. Film-formers are used in hair styling art. See col.5, lines 42-68 and col.s 6-13 for various film-forming polymers. See also example 1 for Amphomer (film-forming polymer) and see claim 1 for film-forming agent.

Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to prepare hair composition of '953 and add film-forming agent of '302 and use in hair styling compositions. One of ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to add film-forming agent taught by '302 into the compositions of '953 with the reasonable expectation of success that the hair can be styled and conditioned simultaneously. This is a prima facie case of obviousness.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-2 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-2 of copending Application No. 10/417,114. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the applications are claiming compositions using the same diamide and it is obvious to add dye or oxidizing agent to the diamide and use it as a bleaching or hair dyeing compositions. In order to dye hair, dyeing agents are conventionally added to the compositions and in order to bleach hair " oxidizing agents" are added. One of ordinary skill in the art would be motivated to add dye into the compositions with the reasonable expectation of success that the compositions can not only be styled but also can be dyed or bleached simultaneously.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 1-2 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/418,112. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the applications are claiming same diamide. It is obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to add reducing agent into compostions of the instant application since the compositions, which has the reducing agent can also be used for straightening the hair.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 1-2 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 of copending Application No. 10/694,775. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the applications are claiming same diamide. It is obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to add fatty alcohols and cationic surfactant into compostions of the instant application since these ingredients are used in the hair care art.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

The specification has not been checked to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors. Applicant's cooperation is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant may become aware in the specification.
